Tom Debusschere, Deceuninck CEO: “During the third quarter of 2010, demand further improved. Rise in demand continues to be supported by government incentives and stricter building codes, aiming at reducing energy waste & CO² emissions. Demand recovery is now seen in almost all countries with exception of UK, Spain and some smaller markets in Eastern Europe.

Outlook

“We continue to be cautious. As a result of reduced government spending on renovation expenditures demand weakened in the mature West-European region with the exception of Belgium, France and Italy. The decline is in clear contrast with the growth in each of the other regions.

Long term, energy-efficient construction and renovation will continue to grow as an engine of our industry. PVC windows remain the ‘best value’ solution for energy savings. Deceuninck continues to invest in product innovation – focussed mainly on insulation values, productivity improvement and service to our Customer.

PVC and additives have now steadily been rising each month since the beginning of 2010. An unprecedented series of Forces Majeures at various stages in the business chain of the PVC resin and additive manufacturers resulted in tight supply and drove costs to an all time high. This evolution remains cause for concern. We confirm our guidance of a single digit sales increase and return to profitability for the full year 2010."
